DESCRIPTION

Executives of Sina Companies were selected by Catholic Health Initiatives and St. Joseph Medical Center to design and develop a new office building on their campus which would not only house a cancer treatment center with a healing garden, but also provide a facelift for the campus as a whole. Catering to the needs of the cancer patients was paramount during the design, which focused around a glass façade and the healing garden. Adjacent to the main entry of the hospital, this glass design provided a fresh new look to all patients entering the hospital – especially those being treated in the cancer center.
